

KAISER'S ARMY TURNS FOR DETERMINED STAND ON BANKS OF THE AISNE

ALLIES UNABLE TO BREAK THROUGH GERMAN LINES IN FIGHTING TODAY—VON KLUCK'S SURRENDER RUMORED.

AUSTRIAN LOSSES BIG

One-Third of Entire Austrian Army Said to Have Been Wiped Out by Russians in Galicia—Naval Activity Reported.

Germany's army to the north and east of Paris after retreating for upwards of fifty miles toward the Belgian frontier, are today making a determined stand along the river Aisne.

A news agency dispatch from Dieppe says that General Von Kluck has been enveloped by a French encircling movement and forced to surrender with a large command and a quantity of guns and ammunition.

The German general staff, however, announced today that heavy engagements were being fought by General Von Kluck's right wing to the northeast of Paris without a definite result so far. The French attempts to break through the German line were said to have been repulsed.

Reports regarding the operations in East Prussia contradict each other. From Petrograd, it is said that General Rennenkampf has resumed the offensive and that the investment of Koenigsburg still is in progress. Berlin advises, however, are to the effect that the Russian generals have suffered defeat nearly as severely as that of the Russian disaster at Allenstein.

Further Petrograd dispatches estimate the casualties of the Austrians in Galicia to total 300,000, nearly one-third of their forces, and that the Austrians have lost a thousand cannon more than two-thirds of their available artillery supplies.

The sinking of the German protected cruiser Hela of 2040 tons, by a submarine of the allied fleet, is announced in an official statement issued at Berlin. A major part of the crew was saved.

The German submarine which sunk the British cruiser Pathfinder, with a loss of 246 lives, is reported to have been destroyed by the fire of several British cruisers. Sharp skirmishes have taken place in the Shang Tung peninsula of China between the German defenders of the Kiaow Chow confederation and a Japanese landing force.

A measure was introduced into the British parliament today suspending until after the war the proceeding of the Irish home rule and the Welsh Disestablishment bill.

Queen Wilhelmina opening parliament in person emphasized the necessity of the Netherlands maintaining the strictest neutrality in the war.

Interest in the naval phase of the war has been somewhat stirred by the news from Berlin of the destruction of the German light cruiser, Hela, by a submarine, and the unofficial story from a Scottish newspaper saying the loss of the British cruiser, Pathfinder, has been avenged by the sinking of her submarine antagonist, which went down under a hail of shots from seven British war ships.

The story that Russian troops had been landed on the continent after coming via England from Archangel, has met with formal and specific denial both from the English official press bureau and from Belgium official sources.

Paris, Sept. 15.—The text of the official communication given out this afternoon was as follows:

"On our left wing during yesterday the Germans offered resistance on the north side of the river Aisne, along a line marked by the forest of L'Angle and Craonne, twelve miles southeast of Laon.

"On our center the German line of resistance was located yesterday to the north of Theuval and Chalon in order to reach Vienna the town in the western section of the Argonne region, the forces of the enemy which were in the southern part of the Argonne hastened their movement of retreat. In passing between the Argonne region and the river Meuse, their front, yesterday at the end of the day, extended from Varennes to Consenvoye.

"On our right wing the Germans were doubling back on Etain, France, and on Metz, Deuval, and Chateau Salins, all in Lorraine.

"In the Vosges and in Alsace the situation is unchanged.

"In Belgium the Belgian army is continuing to operate around Antwerp, causing serious losses to the enemy.

Berlin Announces Victory.

Berlin, by way of Amsterdam and London, Sept. 15.—The German general staff today gave out the following announcement:

"In the western theatre of war the right wing of our army has been engaged in heavy but undecided battles, through our lines were victoriously defeated. At other points where there have been fighting, no decisive results have been reached.

The Germans presumably are pushing new formations forward and the announcement of their armies with a united front has assumed the offensive, may perhaps be expected in two or three days. Much probably depends on the rapidly with which the army under the crown prince completes the isolation of Verdun, and shakes itself loose from this obstacle to be possible to resume major operations.

Report Cruiser Sunk.

Berlin, Sept. 15.—It is officially announced that on the morning of Sept. 13 the small cruiser Hela was sunk by a torpedo from a hostile submarine. Almost the whole of the crew was saved.

Verdun Crucial Point.

London, Sept. 15.—For once the military on both sides agree that the outcome of the campaign in the western area depends on the result of the operations of the crown prince's army before Verdun, but on the question of accomplished fact, the diversion of opinion is as wide as any.

Berlin maintained that the investment of Verdun is now complete and, therefore, expects that within two or three days there will be a resumption of the offensive along the whole German front. On the other hand, the latest official communication issued states that the crown prince has been driven back and has moved his headquarters from St. Mancheville to Montfaucon, about fifteen miles northeast. Petrograd reports that although news of damage from General Brussel's lack, and part of General Razky's force is still to be heard from, it is evident that the Austrian forces have lost one-third of available personnel and two-thirds of artillery.

Report of Surrender.

London, Sept. 15.—The correspondent of the Central News at Dieppe, under date of Monday, Sept. 14, transmits a report that the German army under General Von Kluck has been ordered to surrender. The correspondent says:

"A report has reached Dieppe that the extreme left of the allies, after maintaining an encircling movement by way of Doye and Etain and joining a force from the Boulogne district, has compelled General Von Kluck to surrender with, according to one statement, 14,000 men, and according to another, with 25,000 good men and a quantity of guns and war material.

Cavalry is Beaten.

An engagement took place yesterday near Alois, fifteen miles northwest of Brussels, between German cavalry and a quick firing detachment in motor cars, according to an Ostend dispatch to Reuters' Telegram company. The German losses are reported to be heavy.

Evacuate Alois.

Twenty thousand Germans, the dispatch says, have evacuated Alois hastily to reinforce their troops elsewhere. Before their departure the Germans removed their flag, which was flying over the railroad station. Contrary to reports previously circulated, the prison at Louvain remains in tact and still holds prisoners.

A statement given out by the official press bureau this afternoon says:

"The enemy are still occupying a strong position to the north of the Aisne and fighting is going on along the whole line.

"The crown prince's army has been driven further back and is now on the line of Varnnes, Consenvoye and Ornes.

"The allied troops have occupied Rheims.

"Six hundred prisoners and 12 guns were captured yesterday by the corps on the right of the British.

"Rain has made the roads heavy and is increasing the difficulty of the German army in its retreat.

Allies at Rheims.

The occupation of Rheims by the allies was announced by the official press bureau this afternoon.

Two Wings Holding.

Paris, Sept. 15.—The western and central armies of the Germans forces continued their resistance today north of the river Aisne and north of Rheims and Salons, while the eastern army is retreating.

Berlin maintained that the investment of Verdun is now complete and, therefore, expects that within two or three days there will be a resumption of the offensive along the whole German front. On the other hand, the latest official communication issued states that the crown prince has been driven back and has moved his headquarters from St. Mancheville to Montfaucon, about fifteen miles northeast. # PHILIPP'S NAME IS CHEERED AT MADISON

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE GIVEN AN OVATION AT TODAY'S PLATFORM CONVENTION.

EXPECT SHARP CLASH

La Follette Men Said to Be Conspiring to Secure Adoption of Progressive Planks Including Referendum.

Madison, Sept. 15.—State Chairman George E. Scott called the republican platform convention to order at 12:20 o'clock this noon. The roll of accredited members was read by E. F. Dithmar, secretary of the state central committee. L. L. Phillips, who was first read and was greeted with applause, as was those of Dithmar, Donald, Johnson and Owen, the other nominees for state offices.

Twenty minutes was consumed in reading the roll. The galleries and corridors were crowded with members of the legislature and well known state republican leaders. A flash light picture of the convention was taken.

Fight on Amendments.

Probably outnumbered in the republican convention that convened here at noon today, the leading La Follette men will make their main fight for platform planks that clearly distinguish their principles from the conservative republicans. The Phillips convention, which met at Madison some months ago, declared against the constitutional amendments now pending before the people. It is said here that Senators George D. Scott and Otto Boshard will carry the fight to the convention for an adoption of the amendments declaring for the initiative and referendum. While every attempt is being made here today to harmonize forces so that all have a say on the platform, the amendments seem to be the stumbling block. Their rejection by the convention, it is threatened, may lead to an independent movement. The Phillips followers are firm. They believe that they have the candidate nominated on the Madison convention platform and that they should not be called upon to shift at the present time.

Richmond is Active.

During the afternoon yesterday T. C. Richmond, leader of the Home Rule league, was in long conference with Mr. Phillips and it was declared last night that the platform will endorse many of the ideas advocated by the Home Rule league. Assemblyman A. E. Fegans, the "fighting parson" of Monroe county, declares that he will offer from the floor of the convention a resolution declaring for county option and a stricter regulation of the saloon. He may also offer a resolution commanding the work of the recent vice investigation in the state and asking for legislation for the creation of a permanent vice commission.

Davies to Resign.

So far as be known here today the democratic party is willing to adopt a platform that embodies many of the progressive ideas championed by Senator La Follette with the hope of influencing progressive voters.

OWEN EXPLAINS THE SELLING OR GIVING AWAY OF LIQUOR TO MINORS

Madison, Wis., September 15.—Beer poured into glasses and placed on top of the kegs, where the minors help themselves to it, constitutes a violation of the law prohibiting the selling or giving of liquor to minors, according to an opinion of Attorney General Walter Owen, to District Attorney L. Olson Ellis of Jackson county today.

"The giving away of liquor or the sale of the same can, therefore, be inferred from the circumstances, under which the transfer was made," says the opinion. "I have no hesitancy in saying that this would be giving away liquor to minors."

FREIGHT SERVICE ON RIVERS DEMONSTRATED.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 15.—For the purpose of demonstrating the possibilities for handling freight traffic between various ports of the Gulf coast, east of New Orleans, and ports on the Atlantic coast side of Florida peninsula, a tugboat, the Jacksonville Inland Navigation company today started a barge to touch at all parts from the Crescent City to Jacksonville. Freight service from the Georgia rivers is to be particularly developed.

BAR WOODEN CARS ON ELECTRIC LINES

New York, Sept. 15.—Beginning today, the recent order of the public service commission, prohibiting the use of wooden cars for transportation of passengers on electrically driven trains, goes into effect. The Long Island railroad was the hardest hit by the new order. It had to dispose of many wooden passenger coaches following the commission's decision.

Get Busy—America

We are favored among the nations. We have peace and plenty within our own borders. We have learned the lessons taught by the war and are prepared to face the days ahead. Our farmers are prospering by reason of the present conditions—and when agriculture flourishes, the business outlook is one of good hope and good cheer.

Some American industries and mercantile enterprises now suffer because of the partial suspension of trans-oceanic trade. Ships are being provided—American ships. More industries will be stimulated to supply our home demand, which MUST be satisfied. It is a time of great and glorious business opportunity.

JAP TROOPS START FIGHTING IN CHINA

Delayed Despatch Shows Japanese Forces Mobilizing to Oppose German Troops.

Shi Chi Mo, Shan Tung, Province China, Sunday via Peking, Sept. 15.—The first encounter between German and Japanese forces on land occurred this morning when there were a number of sharp skirmishes between patrols of the contesting forces at a point close to Chi Mo.

Previous to these engagements a German aeroplane flew over the district. The Japanese fired at the machine but without success.

A considerable Japanese force is reported 25 miles to the north of here. A dispatch received here from Wei Hsien (sixty miles northwest of Kiau Chow) says fifty Japanese troops arrived there Sunday.

Cavalry Arrives.

Peking, Sept. 15.—A report received here from Tsing Tau of German origin declares that a vanguard of Japanese cavalry is at Kiau Chow city. Kiau Chow is about five miles outside the Kiau Chow boundary to the northwest.

Japs Claim Victory.

Tokio, Sept. 15.—Under date of September 12 the war office has given out an official statement relating to the situation at Tsing Tau in which it declares that the Japanese cavalry captured Chi Mo ten miles outside of the Kiau Chow. No signs of the enemy were discovered north of the river Pichia. Aeroplanes of the enemy occasionally are sighted.

STOUT INSTITUTE CASE ON CALENDAR

Suit to Compel Erection of Buildings Provided for by State, Before Supreme Court.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 15.—At the meeting of the supreme court today the calendar of about thirty-five cases was taken up for argument. The assignment will be completed Saturday. One of the last cases that is listed for hearing is the application of Frank Richter against the board of trustees of the Stout Institute for a writ of mandamus to compel the erection of buildings for which an appropriation was made at the last session of the legislature. The court announced this morning that state case No. 1, Sunderland vs. the state was dismissed and that case No. 1, Gilkey & Anson vs. Doolittle; No. 17, Staudenmayer vs. Ruman, treasurer et al; and No. 18 State ex rel Staudenmayer vs. Funk, clerk, et al, had been continued.

PARIS NEWSPAPERS FEEL WAR EFFECTS

Most of Staffs Have Gone to Front—Size of Papers Cut to One Sheet.

Paris, Sept. 15.—All Paris newspapers are printed on one sheet only. The supply of paper is limited, most of the staffs have gone to the front and nobody cares for anything but war news. The news have forbidden vendors to cry out anything but the names of papers so there are no shouts about big battles and big losses. There is far less "yellow" or exaggerated news in those papers than in the evening papers in London where "the big battle" has been dressed up daily for two weeks.

ASKS FOR INQUIRY INTO WAR REPORTS

Lord Selborne Writes London Times That Civilized World Has Right to Know the Truth.

London, Sept. 15.—Lord Selborne, former high commissioner in South Africa, in a letter to the Times calls attention to the several reports of German atrocities. He says:

"Permit me to say that such statements cannot possibly be allowed to rest on anonymous authority. The civilized world has a right to demand names and full particulars. Either the statements are true or untrue. If untrue the Times would surely regret deeply having given them publicity and would feel that our righteous cause was gravely injured by such atrocities of the German army."

"Old and new will judge. Would it not be possible for trained lawyers or judges belonging to a neutral nation like the Netherlands or the United States to conduct a sworn inquiry into such cases as are already open?"

BIG SERBIAN ARMY INVADING AUSTRIA

At Least 150,000 Soldiers Engaged in Offensive Movement Against Dual Monarchy.

London, Sept. 15.—According to a statement issued here today by the Serbian legation there are now in Hungary at least 150,000 Serbian troops successfully pushing an offensive movement against the forces of the dual monarchy.

Guard Roads to Budapest.

London, Sept. 15.—The Austrians are entrenching at all strategic points on all the roads leading to Budapest. A large Serbian army is marching toward Buzhagaza, a position of great importance, the purpose being to render secure the Servians' left flank in Bosnia the Servians are besieging Gisingrad and that their advance is nearing Sarajevo, which is strongly fortified and where desperate fighting is expected.

The prediction is made that a Russian force will be affected with a Russian army sweeping to the westward.

Austrians Loss 10,000.

Nish, Serbia, Sept. 11, delayed in transmission, Sept. 15.—A great battle was fought Sept. 8 and 9 on the whole of the northern front of Serbia. The Austrians who were trying to invade the country at different points were everywhere repulsed and suffered heavy casualties. It is estimated that they lost more than 10,000 in dead and wounded. The military authorities consider the victory a decisive one.

The success of the Serbian army is said to have been due to the precise artillery fire and the quick maneuvering of the Servians and especially to their brilliant bayonet charges.

In northern Serbia the offensive of the Servians is said to be progressing successfully.

RUSSIANS REPULSED WITH HEAVY LOSSES

Army of Vilna Badly Defeated Says Wireless Dispatch from Berlin.

Berlin, Sept. 15, by wireless to New York, via Sayville.—It is officially announced in Berlin today that General Von Hindenburg had telegraphed Emperor William that the Russian army of Vilna composed of the second, third, fourth and twelfth army corps, two reserve divisions and five divisions of cavalry, have been completely defeated by the Germans. The Russian casualties were heavy.

EVERYTHING ENGLISH BANISHED IN BERLIN

Intense Hatred of Germans for English Names, Even Displayed in Numerous Ways.

Berlin, Sept. 15.—One of the accompaniments of the European war which would, under less serious conditions, be a fair subject for amused comment, is the sudden rage that has manifested itself against everything English, French and Russian. This feeling has reached such a pitch that French and English pictures have been withdrawn from public view at the Berlin museums. In the Kaiser Friedrich Museum, priceless old books with wood engravings by Gustave Dore have been withdrawn.

On the days following the declaration of war by Great Britain, groups paraded the main streets and made demonstrations before shops with offending signs. Many American firms, which advertised branches in Paris and London, suffered. At the corner of Leipziger and Friedrich streets stands the Equitable Life Insurance Company's building. Its first two floors sheltered the Equitable Cafe, but this became the "Zitka Cafe" on August 5th.

The Berlin Messenger-Boy Company, whose English name had long given offense to sturdy patriots, is now the Berliner Boten-Junge Gesellschaft, and the messengers have been equipped with new headgear to replace the tiny Tommy Atkins hat which they formerly wore on the side of their head.

The movement is being carried to such ridiculous lengths that prominent newspapers are now declaring the Germans should stop saying "adeu" upon parting, a salutation that has been in use since the eighteenth century.

FORTY PEOPLE DROWN

Between Thirty-Five and Forty-Five People Killed and Score Seriously Injured at Lebanon, Mo.

Springfield, Mo., Sept. 15.—Between thirty-five and forty persons were killed and a score of others injured early today, when the locomotive, baggage car and forward chair car of the St. Louis and San Francisco train No. 5 plunged through a trestle over Brush Creek near Lebanon, Mo., and were submerged by the swollen stream.

Large Number Drowned.

Most of the dead were drowned in the car and a great number of these were women and children. Those who were able to escape fought their way out by breaking windows and swimming ashore. It is estimated there were 65 passengers in the chair car.

Because of the poor communication with the scene of disaster it was impossible to give a definite estimate of how many of these escaped. None of the sleeping cars left the track. Passengers in these gave aid to the injured.

Rain last week caused all the small streams in the vicinity to rise. The train was late because of the flooded condition. As it passed Lebanon, according to reports reaching here, its speed was increased to make up lost time.

Plunges Into Cloud Burst.

The train plunged into a cloud burst near Lebanon, Mo., today and before the engineer could stop the train the track gave way and the engine and four cars rolled into a gully swollen by the flood.

Between thirty-five and forty-five persons in two passenger coaches were drowned and probably a score injured. Two sleeping cars remained on the track and the passengers in those coaches rushed forward to rescue those imprisoned in the car submerged in 12 feet of water. By noon 26 bodies had been recovered.

Early Report.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 15.—Thirty-five or forty are dead in the St. Louis and San Francisco "Texas limited" near Lebanon Mo. according to estimates made here. Two cars went into a gully and are submerged. Both cars were well filled with passengers.

Attempting to formation reaching Springfield, Mo., the train plunged through a bridge over Brush Creek and a small stream four miles east of Lebanon.

Heavy rains had swelled the stream and weakened the bridge.

The "Texas limited" was one of the best equipped trains on the Frisco railroad. The train left St. Louis last night at 8:32 p. m. for Galveston, Texas, and carried three sleeping cars, two coaches, a combined baggage and smoking car and dining car.

An early report sent by a physician who was on the wrecked train, said the least twenty persons, including Engineer O'Brien and Fireman Stockstill, were drowned.

MAKE GOOD PROGRESS WITH ROAD BUILDING

SEVERAL HIGHWAYS HAVE BEEN COMPLETED WITHIN PAST FEW WEEKS.

OILING PLAN FAVORED

Committee Approves Commissioner Moore's Proposal to Treat Macadam Roads Built This Season.

Highway construction work in Rock county is progressing with satisfactory results. According to the information given by Commissioner C. E. Moore, who gave out another bulletin today setting forth the status of the main traveled thoroughfares.

Among the roads recently completed is the four mile bridge road in the town of Janesville, a stretch of gravel surfaced highway a half mile or more in length extending from the east approach of the four mile bridge eastward over a steep hill which was cut down to an eight percent grade.

Other roads which have been completed are the Delavan road in the town of Bradford; the Bergen road in the town of Clinton; the Hanover road in the town of Rock; and the Newark road in the town of Spring Valley. All of these highways are now in excellent condition for travel.

In connection with his statement today, Mr. Moore gave out the information that the county board's highway committee had given its approval to Mr. Moore's proposal to oil all newly constructed water bound macadam roads in the county, providing satisfactory arrangements for securing material and equipment can be made.

The county has no apparatus for applying the oil, but it may be possible to hire the same from city street departments. If this can be done, Mr. Moore plans to go ahead with the work and will treat some ten miles or more of this fall. He intends to have a top-dressing of sand wherever oil is put on in order to prevent the rolling up and destroying of the surface.

Members of the highway committee made an inspection trip on Monday, at which time the oiling proposition was considered and favorably acted upon.

Mr. Moore's bulletin on the roads now under construction is as follows: "The Afton road in the town of Rock at the Seven Oaks dairy is still closed and work is being done south of the Afton hill. The Hanover road, the Madison road and the lower and upper Footville roads in the town of Plymouth are torn up. The Madison road in the town of Porter is still under process of construction, as is also Janesville street and Madison avenue in the village of Milton. In the town of Lima the Lima-Milton and the Whitewater-Koshkonong roads are being worked; also the Lake Shore in the town of Clinton. The Milwaukee road in the town of Turtle is being resurfaced. "For roads between Janesville and Beloit take east side river road; between Janesville and Evansville take Magnolia road; between Janesville and Footville, take upper Footville and lower Footville roads; between Beloit and Clinton take Shopiere road."

MAKES HASTY EXIT FROM HOSPITAL WARD

Stranger Stricken on Street Spurns Treatment When He Recovers at Mercy Hospital.

While physicians and nurses were pondering over what promised to be a mysterious case at the Mercy hospital this morning, the patient, who was thought near death, recovered consciousness and asked for his clothes. Albert Smith, a stranger, who gave his home, as being Louisville, Kentucky, was found by residents on Hickory street, prostrate upon the walk at an early hour this morning and from all appearances the man was dead.

The police were called to the Bell residence at 522 Hickory street and found the young man on the sidewalk, barely breathing. As the practice wagon of the fire department passed on the street the senseless man was taken to the hospital in great haste to the Mercy hospital.

On the way up no signs of life were apparent, although Policeman Smith made attempts at resuscitation. At the hospital the stranger was put in a ward and Dr. Fred Sutherland was called. While under a nurse's care, signs of inward convulsions came on and a call for a physician.

While the doctors were in consultation the patient recovered and asked to be allowed to leave his hospital bed. Without giving his name, he addressed the man left the place and walked off as if nothing had happened.

The police learned that Smith was a lineman by profession and was subject to epileptic fits. He had come here recently in search of work and while walking out Hickory street to see a lineman foreman was overcome by the fit. During his unconsciousness it was feared the man was on the verge of death.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS COUNTED ON TO WIN LAURELS IN BATTLE

With Records of Valorous Achievements to Maintain, Much is Expected of Canadian Troops.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Quebec, Canada, Sept. 15.—Canada expects great things from her thirty thousand volunteers who will soon be fighting on European battlefields. And if the soldiers of the Dominion acquit themselves in this war as they have in warfare in times past, Canada will have no cause to be ashamed of them.

Canadian regiments won fame throughout the British empire and beyond in the Boer war; Canadian voyageurs manned the boats which bore Wolseley up the Nile to the attempted relief of Khartum; Canadian troops crushed the Northwest rebel-to him in the presence of the whole garrison of Gibraltar. The authorities state that the first Canadian to receive the Victorian Cross was Alexander R. Dunn of Toronto, who was a lieutenant in the Light Brigade, that charged into eternal fame at Balaklava. It is stated that "when the Victoria Cross was instituted Dunn was unanimously recommended by the officers of the Light Cavalry Brigade as the man above all others who should get this reward and the man above all who had distinguished himself by his intrepidity," and he received the cross from Queen Victoria in person. He later served with distinction in the Abyssinian campaign under Napier.

REAL WAR SCENES IN CANADA: READY TO EMBARK FOR THE FRONT

ion in 1855, the Fenian raids of 1866 and 1870, the Papineau rebellion of 1837; they fought well in the War of 1812 and in the American revolution.

Individual Canadian volunteers by the hundred fought in the ranks of the North in the American Civil war; Canadians were with Grant at Vicksburg, and with Sherman on the march to the sea. Canadians marched with Lord Roberts in the famous advance from Kabul to Kandahar in the Afghan war, and Canadians battled desperately with Pulleine against the Zulus in the broken square at Isandlwana. A Canadian lieutenant rode with the Six Hundred at Balaklava, and a Canadian colonel was in command of the immortal defense of Lucknow in the Indian mutiny for the eighty-two slow days from the death of Lawrence to the coming of Havelock. Canadians were with Nelson at Trafalgar, and with Wellington in the Peninsula. Where the flag of England has gone in battle in the last century there, too, have gone Canadians. At the present time it is estimated that there are 200 Canadian holding commissions in the regular British army—the standing army of the empire—of whom the majority are now in France with the expeditionary force under General French.

Hundreds of times have Canadians been mentioned in official dispatches, and scores of decorations have been won by them. Since the establishment in 1856 of the Victoria Cross, known throughout the empire as the V. C.—a considerable number of Canadians have won the plain medal made from captured cannon, and inscribed "For Valour," which means that the holder has done some peculiarly notable deed of personal heroism in the face of the enemy, and which is undoubtedly the most widely prized honor of all upon Great Britain's lengthy list.

In the Boer war, four Victoria Crosses were won by Canadians. One hundred and sixty-nine soldiers of the Dominion were mentioned in dispatches by Lord Roberts, Lord Kitchener, and General Buller. Five Canadians won the "C. B." (Companion of the Order of the Bath), five more won the "C. M. G." (Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George), and seventeen others won the "D. S. O." (Distinguished Service Order).

Probably the most famous name in Canadian military annals is that of Inglis, the defender of Lucknow. Inglis, who was born in Halifax, saw service in the rebellion of 1837 in Lower Canada at St. Denis and St. Eustache. At the outbreak of the Indian mutiny in 1857 he was a lieutenant-colonel and in command of the Thirtieth regiment at Lucknow, being next in seniority to Sir Henry Lawrence, the commander of the city. Five days after the siege of Lucknow began Lawrence died of his wounds, and for eighty-two days, through July, August, and until September 25, Inglis commanded the garrison in a siege which will be forever glorious in British history.

Sir Henry Havelock, by a memorable feat of arms, raised the siege, for his enduring fortitude and persevering gallantry in the defense of Lucknow against an overwhelming force of the enemy, was made a major general and knight commander of the Bath. Three young Canadian subalterns served under Inglis at Lucknow and each was given a captaincy for gallantry, one of them later in the mutiny winning the Victorian Cross and subsequently having it presented

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM ESCAPED FIRE DAMAGE

Only a few fuses and wires of the fire alarm system were damaged by the heavy electrical shower last evening through the efforts of the firemen in cutting the wires when the danger was greatest. No alarm was sounded, but the bell tapped repeatedly, owing to the breaking of wires blowing out of fuses or the neutralizing of the current. The last is the most frequent cause of the bell sounding, for when the lightning current comes in contact with a wire current, both are neutralized.

Will "Big Six" Mathewson Win Pennant For New York Giants?

Will Mathewson rescue the Giants in the mad pennant race in the National league and bring McGraw his fourth straight pennant, breaking all records in major league ball? It is to be admitted if there is any man on the Giant aggregation that will put the league champs into another world series it will be the Big Six.

The Giants are in the midst of a slump—playing bad ball compared to their usual gall, and until they shake the jinx the Boston Braves will continue to lead the circuit. The Giant twirlers have not been performing in any too good style and the weak hole at third has let a bunch of games slip through into the last column. Marty O'Toole is not boosting the Giants' chances as yet, having lost two games that he worked in, and Marquard's failure to get into condition has helped the Giants in the duel down from the top of the ladder. Demaree is coming back into form and may be depended upon to do his share in ousting the Braves. Christy Mathewson—the man of the hour—is being worked hard and often in a well known fact that the Giants' mainstay cannot pitch winning ball without rest. Tesreau has only been showing fair form, but flashed yesterday when he won from the Pirates in a duel with Indian Tincup. McGraw declares if necessary he will pitch the giant Tesreau in every other game.

There is one thing against the Giants which may settle the whole war for them. Every team around the big show is pulling for Stallings' gang to win the National rag, and wherever the Giants go they find sturdy opposition—against them with the rival players fighting from the ground up to carry out the slogan, "Beat McGraw." On the other hand, while the honesty of the national pastime is too firmly established to claim that a team would "lay down" when meeting Boston, it is certain they do not have the antagonism that is shown against the Giants. Without one of the two teams "crack" the race will probably be decided in the series between Boston and New York, which starts on Sept. 30 and runs for four days with one game being scheduled. These five games will put one of the three out of reach. Both teams play the greater part of this month at their home grounds, with the big series at New York. Both teams are short on pitchers and Boston and New York's invasion of the western clubs, this week may settle the whole affair. Pittsburgh, who settled the Cubs' hash, is coming strong, and Cincinnati is playing scrappy ball and the players are out to spill the beans for one of the nine, as they are hopelessly out of the race. The Pirates invade both New York and Boston the last of the month for a four game series. Pittsburgh goes to Boston Sept. 18 and a week later tackles the Giants. This time should give them a chance to recuperate their pitching strength and the fans will watch the outcome of these games with live interest.

The Boston defense is undoubtedly the cause of the Braves' sensational climb, together with the nine's up and at 'em' fighting spirit that has pulled them from the brands in the last lining. Much has been written of the ability of Evers, Rabbit Maranville, Schmidt and Smith, and in brief they compose the most brilliant possible exception of Coney Mack's millionaire defense work that has walked through the American league. The team has three pitchers that can be depended on to win, but they have been worked hard. Stallings claims hard work is the secret of success, but at any moment the pace may tell and Boston will be forced to "check in" for the lack of reliable second string men. In Davis the Boston nine has a winning pitcher, he having pitched a no-hit game against the hard-hitting Phillies, but again he may be only a flash. The Harvard law student will prove mighty handy to the Braves in times of double-headers and may prove a valuable ruglar on the rubber.

St. Louis and Chicago, although struggling gamely, are going to make the race interesting and it will be a nip and tuck race clear to the finish. Contrary to the fact that the majority of major league magnates would welcome a settlement of the war between the Reds and organized ball, it appears that chances for peace are remote. It promises to be a fight to the finish and the hint of peace, given considerable publicity, appears to be unfounded.

The grand moguls of the two major leagues—Fenar and Johnson—voice the opinion that it will be a fight for the public to decide, and in their opinion to talk peace to the Reds would be to wreck the two organized circuits. Both presidents are much opposed to settling the quarrel and the fight at the turnstiles will continue. The majors put one over on the Reds last week when they did some secret drafting and signed promising "bushers" under court bond contracts before the outlaws had an opportunity to get in with their luring offers of gold.

BOXERS CLAMORING FOR WELSH BOUT

Three American Lightweights Wanted to Meet British Champion For Title.

(By Strikes.)

The arrival of Freddie Welsh and Gunboat Smith from the troubled land of Emdin to give the boxing game just the impetus required to keep the sport from a despondent state. The arrival of Welsh in New York last week was not heeded to the great extent in the done sheets, for it is probably Welsh did not care to have it known that he deserted England to fight for money over in U. S. A. instead of fighting for the King over in his home land.

The lightweights and heavies of the country will be stirred up to land matches with the two leaders, especially in the lightweight division for there is probably not a first-class 133 pounder in the country but what gets an impression that he can "lick" the British title holder. Promoters have been hot after the trail of Welsh and the boxers are clamoring for a whack at his crown—so it is likely that Freddie will have some serious battles on his hands before March comes around the coming spring. With a world's title at stake it is a sure bet that Welsh is not going to indulge in the dust with any of the dyed-in-the-cloth lightweights for any paltry sum. Promoter Mulken of Milwaukee is attempting to get the champion's signature to a contract to appear in three fights in the Cream city, for which Welsh will receive a guarantee of the "small" sum of $25,000. It is doubtful if the artful Britisher will consent to battle for some months for he will be availing himself of the American public from behind the footlights how he whipped the American champ—one Willie Ritchie. This should greatly please the dyed-in-the-cloth American fan nicely when they want to see a Stars and Stripes boxer take the crown away from the invader in the least possible time.

The dark horse in the limelight is Ad Wolgast, an also-ran in the championship division. Ad is vigorously launching his come-back stunt and it will be hard to keep the Michigan Dutchman out of the ring this year, for Wolgast is unhappy unless fighting, and furthermore, when he gets in the ring he fights every minute of the time. The lion-hearted ring man opens the boxing lid in Wisconsin with Mandot on the eighteenth in Milwaukee. The only question that depends on Wolgast's success vs. will be hands last? The salary mits of the former champ have been badly abused in previous bouts and if they go spongy again Ad might as well retire to his Michigan farm to rest in peace. This will be the second meeting between the pair, Mandot having bumped Wolgast in New Orleans. Western promoters then wanted to sign the French fighter with Wolgast again but Mandot kept his fight with Rivers, while Ritchie was signed with Wolgast, then champion. The result is known, for Ritchie won the title, while Mandot lost out by not breaking his contract. With bad hands, Wolgast should be defeated by the clever and hard hitting Mandot, and with his hands in good condition it will be a hard fight for both have an old grudge sore to heal. When the French and Dutch mix these days there is bound to be a few bullets flying, and it is certain the gloves will be traveling in Milwaukee on the eighteenth.

Wolgast has signed for three other bouts within a month's time and is going to be a busy boxer all winter if his plans do not go astray. There are three fighters who now are warranted with a fight with Welsh and a series of elimination bouts to pick the best man is likely to result, Charlie White, at present appears to be the right man to stack up against the new champ, and if these kingpins meet a new champion is likely to carve his name in the pugilist records. The second man deserving of the title match is ex-champion Ritchie, who has practically signed for a return meeting. White, who conquered Ritchie in a Milwaukee bout before the then champion was enticed to his doom against Welsh over in England, may battle Ritchie again to settle their private quarrel if Welsh sticks to the stage game for any great length of time, and the winner will be the right man to throw the gauntlet for the chance at the crown.

BRAVES TRIUMPH AS GIANTS SPLIT EVEN

Slipping McGrawites Win First of Double Bill, Matty Losing Second—Cubs Defeat Pirates.

A double victory by the Giants over their Phillies yesterday, would have placed them nearer their desired goal, but Matty couldn't do it, and consequently McGraw and his team of huskies are forced to slip another half game farther away from the Boston Braves. "These Braves certainly are doing things up right, and are going to keep it up," says Stallings. They won 4 to 3 yesterday from the Dodgers, while the Giants neither gained or lost in the chase.

Rudolph for Boston went the route, and was opposed by Pfeffer, Ragan and Allen, each club gathering eight hits. Tesreau was the Giants' hero, while Matty was the loser in the second conflict. The same teams lineup again today.

At Pittsburgh, the Cubs cannot get their bearings, but on their home grounds, there is no difficulty whatsoever. The Pirates were again defeated yesterday by the West Sids, 7 to 4, which game places the Cubs, 7 to 4, at least nearer the Giants. Assuming that no team in the major leagues can win over three championships in a row, the West Side fans are believing that either Boston or the Cubs are the most logical teams to be crowned on in the logical games. St. Louis has not enough nerve to stand the strain, is the belief. The Cubs will be idle today.

HAVE NO HOPES FOR IOWA VARSITY TEAM

Dismal Prospects Face Coaches of Hawkeye Eleven This Year Because of Stars Being Disqualified.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Iowa City, Iowa, Sept. 14.—The University of Iowa faculty has turned the blue glare on the Hawkeyes' gridiron prospects for 1914. Fifteen promising candidates for this year's eleven, including seven of last year's varsity team, have been put out of the running by their inability to pass the physical examinations. Unless they remove their "bones" at special examinations at the opening of school Iowa will have nothing like the strong team she turned out in 1913.

To add to Coach Hawley's troubles, eleven underwent an operation of appendicitis less than three weeks ago and will be out of the game this fall. Joe Carberry, another veteran, is suffering from blood poisoning, and probably will not get into the opening contests.

Three veterans, according to the present dope, will be ready for the first workout of the year. They are Quarterback Gross, real sensation in 1913; Barron, star tackle, and Parsons, who plays halfback position and quarterback equally well.

Indications are that the Hawkeyes will have the lightest varsity squad in several seasons. Gorrell, a substitute lineman in 1913, will plug a hole in this year's line and candidates but the would-be linemen are an aggregation of the featherweights.

SARAH PADDEN IN "THE LITTLE SHEPHERD OF BARGAIN ROW."

AT MYERS THEATRE
"The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row" in which Sarah Padden and a numerous company will appear at the Myers Theatre next Wednesday September 16, is said to give this talented actress the first big opportunity of her career. She will be seen in the role of Nora Blake, a plain woman of the people, who, by her own effort advances from a scrub girl with Selig & Sons to a position of responsibility. She is a girl with a man's brain and a man's love for work. She wants to do things. One ambition stirs another until she finds herself, with the death of the elder Mr. Selig, the only really dependable member of the firm. The business, left in the hands of two sons, one an invalid and the other an irresponsible youngster, is on the verge of bankruptcy. Nora takes it in charge, brings order out of chaos, and in the end, not only establishes herself as a successful business woman, but finds an ideal husband. It is a story of unusual charm. Nora amuses us with a smile, and takes the audience with her through the tears back to smiles again.

The great public that applauded Miss Padden in "Kindling" and "The Third Degree" will find "The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row" even more to its liking. The United Play Co., a firm responsible for many of our best attractions in recent seasons, has provided the star with a splendid cast and an adequate and artistic scenic setting.

Myers Vaudeville

Starting with Friday matinee the same high class vaudeville attractions that were offered last season will again be presented at Myers Theatre. The opening bill consisting of three acts will be as follows:

FRANCIS LE MAIRE IN VAUDEVILLE.

Miss Francis Le Maire in a phenomenal Roller and Bicycle Skating novelty. Knight and Benson will be presented as novelty entertainers. Carroll, Keating and Fay will appear in a singing, talking sketch entitled "At Crow's Nest Inn."

AT THE APOLLO.

"The Littlest Rebel"

From Chicago comes a wire from Sam Lederer, manager of the Studebaker Theatre saying, "Littlest Rebel" most popular film in town, has taken city by storm. E. K. Lincoln as Captain Cary and little Mimi Yvonne as Virgie have made this picture a nation wide success. In Chicago the Studebaker audience rewarded each show with rounds of applause, an unusual occurrence in picture shows. "The Littlest Rebel" is being shown at the Apollo tonight.

Griffith Film Coming.
A post card has been received by the Apollo signed "A Patron" requesting a Griffith film. The manager acting upon this request has secured the largest Griffith film out at the present time. It will contain 25 stars and will be shown here Wednesday, September 23rd.

"Flames of Justice."
"The Flames of Justice" is a strongly acted drama in which woman sinks to the lowest and nearly drags her daughter with her when the flames of justice consume all the evilness. This picture will be presented Wednesday.

Relics in Bay of Naples.

No place in the world seems to have suffered so much from the sinking of the land as the bay of Naples, the paradise of the submarine archeologist, who is even now making fresh discoveries of buried suburbs and massive blocks of masonry with the stone rings for mooring the Roman galleys. But he has to dive to get at them.

Ideal Land for Coffee.

The coffee plant flourishes best in well-watered region, in a tropical climate at an elevation of 1,500 to 5,000 feet, and in a rich soil. All these elements are found to perfection in Brazil, especially in the four states of Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, Espirito Santo and Minas Geraes, whose combined areas cover about one-eighth of the vast domain of the republic. This section produces about four-fifths of the world's supply of coffee.

to sober thought, and introspection is proving good for the soul.

The idols which we have worshipped stand out in the limelight like lumps of ordinary clay, and we are amazed at the strange infatuation which held us in thrall.

War is a big problem, and while as a nation we are not involved, its magnitude overwhelms us. The questions confronting demand for intelligent solution, the best brain that the country can produce.

Many of the men who have occupied the American stage, for the past decade, are in the discard, and more will follow. The demand of the hour is for statesmen of the broadest type,

and for financiers of clear perception and marked ability.

America has the men, and the nation has always been equal to every great emergency. The people are above the situation and will betide

the muckraker and cheap reformer who attempts to trifle with them.

THE PARCELS POST.

Someone in writing about the business methods of the parcels post, said recently:

"Among the most whimsical and inconsistent absurdities of the parcel post is its regulations regarding what the department defines as 'miscellaneous printed matter.' This matter, including periodicals but excluding books (in the general acceptance of the term), was not transferred by the postmaster general's order to the parcel post, and therefore remains in the third class. This class is still available at one cent for each two ounces up to the limit of four pounds.

Above four pounds such matter can and must be sent by parcel post at zone rates. Thus, a parcel of printed matter other than books weighing four pounds costs thirty-two cents postage, but if over four pounds it can be sent by parcel post within the New York city zone for nine cents.

"The Publishers' Weekly comments

amusingly on this preposterous state of affairs:

"A parcel of miscellaneous printed matter weighing just under twenty ounces, thus costing ten cents at third-class rates, may be combined with three pounds of brick-bats and sent within New York City for seven cents or in the first zone for nine cents; and the saving is proportionately greater as the printed matter increases and the brick-bats diminish.

The force of absurdity cannot go much further.

This is the sort of competition that results from government ownership.

When the law was changed, making the limit of weight fifty pounds instead of twenty, one of the mining companies, in a western state, commenced to ship its ore in fifty pound packages, across the mountain for a fraction of what they had been paying. The people pay the freight, and in time they may discover the absurdity of many reform laws.

THE CITY.

That the commission form of government is making good in Janesville is admitted by every unprejudiced mind. The business of the city is handled with the same degree of in-teiligence as any private business, and the taxpayers have the satisfaction of knowing that every dollar invested represents value received.

The streets of the city have always been a perplexing question. The little stretches of brick pavement might have been extended to twenty miles with the money wasted during the last twenty years of the old council system.

The street commissioner is handicapped by being compelled to care for

With cotton at seven- and one-half spinners, the south is hard hit. When the fact is considered that Great definite period, the problem of marketing our present crop of fifteen million bales is not easily solved.

that they fear widespread bankruptcy.

It is estimated that the war is costing fifty million dollars a day, to say nothing of the loss of property, which will require years to redeem. New York City is a prominent factor in the

TORRENTIAL RAINS CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE IN COUNTY

HEAVIEST RAIN IN YEARS DEMORALIZES CITY FOR HOURS. RIVER RISING FAST. SCARES MANY.

WASHOUTS REPORTED

Traffic on St. Paul Abandoned Last Night Result of Washouts on Mineral Point Division.

The worst rainfall in many years visited Janesville and vicinity yesterday afternoon and last night. Rain fell in torrents from 8:30 o'clock until early this morning. What the real amount of downpour in inches really is, is unknown, but it has been variously estimated from eight to fifteen inches.

The downpour came after threatening skies of the morning and the day before. A huge black cloud preceded the rain and many viewed the sky with apprehension. It gathered in the southwest and traveled over the western section of the city. Visions of tornadoes and cyclones were many to the cloud were traveling in a northeasterly direction. It was this cloud, no doubt, that later gave much credence to the story that Mineral Point was destroyed by a cyclone.

The rain caused great damage in this vicinity. Railroad traffic on the Mineral Point division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway was suspended, the river rose quickly and treacherously and divers other lines suffered.

St. Paul Tied Up.
All trains on the Mineral Point division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road were abandoned on any line in this section of the country. Washouts, soft road beds and cuts filled with mud two feet deep are being contended with in many places. Last evening passenger train No. 7, due here at 7:10, was compelled to lay over at Monroe. During the night washouts occurred two miles west of Hanover, the same distance east of Gratiot. Work train sent out early in the morning came upon soft roadbed and with the track out ahead, was stalled between the two for several hours. The regular morning train over the division was abandoned.

At Stoughton a fill of seventy feet deep and nearly twice as long will have to be made. The tracks and ballast went before the flood waters like so much paper. The morning train No. 330 for McGregor, Ia., via Madison and Portage, was held at 10 o'clock instead of the regular Mineral Point division train. No. 8, not coming through from Monroe and points west on that line.

Use C. & N. W. Tracks
The 10:45 train from Madison to Chicago came over the Northwestern Evansville route because of the trouble at Stoughton. The passenger train from Chicago and to Madison came over the regular line as far as Janesville but was transferred to a similar western tracks and followed a similar route as the other train to this city.

Conductor Thomas Brennan of the "dog run" was compelled to take the 11 o'clock stock freight for Milwaukee last night as the St. Paul division made such arrangements necessary. Conductor Brennan proceeded to just west of Eagle with his train when a bad washout was encountered. It was repaired by section men and trains were running over the division this morning between Janesville and Milwaukee.

City Not Devastated.
Persistent rumors that Mineral Point was leveled by cyclone according to the story every building was destroyed and the loss of life was large. The story was still in circulation on the streets this morning. Nothing, however, verifies the rumor and where it came to origin is unknown. That section of the country, however, was visited by storm fully severe as Janesville experienced.

The fact that railroad telegraph communication with Mineral Point was impossible a while last evening made many believe the "scare" story.

The deep grade cut just east of Monroe was filled with mud last night. At Gratiot water several feet deep submerged the tracks.

At Monroe F. B. Jeffris had just filled his large hay shed with fifty tons of hay at 11 o'clock. Lightning and building was struck by lightning and was consumed by fire, together with the hay.

River Rises 43 Inches.
Yesterday at noon just enough water to turn the water wheels at the Electric station was passing over the dam at Fourth Avenue. This morning at 8:30 o'clock the river had risen 43 inches.

At Indian Ford a rise of but 14 inches was reported. The race bank broke at Fulton and with the additional outflow from the Catfish and the flow from the Three Mile creek, the volume of water which passed and is still passing over the dam here is tremendous.

The river is full of leaves, twigs, branches of trees and other debris. It is washing away many banks and hillsides.

At Indian Ford two feet of water last evening covered the bridge approaches. Below Fulton, in the White farm pasture, a large herd of cattle was grazing. With the breaking of the bank at Fulton the low pasture was covered and six head drowned.

Along the river nearly every boat-house has suffered. Several were torn from their moorings. Launches, canoes and rowboats tied with short ropes floundered with the rapid rise of the water.

In the race at the Janesville Electric company the launches of John Dellar and G. Murphy went down. Murphy raised his Easterlinz this morning and Easterlinz went to the results of the Monday's wash. George Strunk, who has a boat-house and a newly purchased launch, located on the upper river just inside the short rapids, tied up his boat in a short time to see his boat go down. He later raised it and pumped out the water.

Interurban traffic between Beloit and Janesville was tied up for several hours early yesterday evening. A washout near the Caloric company here caused the trouble. It was remedied however, and service resumed about 8 o'clock today.

On the Chicago and Northwestern railroad soft tracks near Footville caused the routing of the Chicago-Madison passenger train. A washout occurred. Trains arrived nearly an hour late but good schedules were being maintained this morning and this afternoon.

Northwestern baggage men on the Elroy run report no rain in that section. Little fell at Madison but west of there and towards the southern state line the downfall was copious. Streets in the city suffered greatly. The sewers were unable to carry the large volume of water and it backed, spreading in some places nearly a foot deep at the crossings. Small gullies in the thoroughfares are numberless in the different wards.

Street Department Busy.
At the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets this morning were large stones and ridges of sand brought by the water from up the hill. Nearly a wagon load was later carted away by the street department.

Leaky roofs were great menaces and many buildings today show the effects of the leakage. Flooded cellars are also numerous both in the residential and the downtown districts. Banked railroad right of ways are out with gullies in the city. Although no washouts are known to have occurred here the track is weakened considerably according to railroad men.

In the city perhaps the greatest damage was felt by the sand and gravel companies. Aggregate loss of the several Janesville concerns totals close to $5,000. Machinery, belts, diggers and all equipment with the exception of towers lies buried under five to twelve feet of sand. It was stated today that it would be some time before all the pits would resume operations.

Storm in Iowa.
Similar storm conditions prevailed in Iowa yesterday morning according to travelers who arrived here this morning following their passing through that section. The rain began falling Sunday night and did not cease until noon yesterday. At Marion the government weather station reported a rainfall of 14 inches in ten hours. Tracks were washed away and considerable damage done along many other lines.

The new dam in Monterey near the bridge, suffered none from the great amount of water passing over it and today the newly constructed spillway seems to be holding well under the strain. It was thought last night that there would be some danger as the dam was recently finished.

Damages at Fulton.
Fulton, Sept. 15.—Damages to the extent of between two and three thousand dollars comprise the financial result to the town which ravaged this vicinity on Monday afternoon and night. The largest portion of the losses occurred near the dam, where huge piles of gravel, filled in a few years ago to protect the dam, were washed away. One huge pile, located at the north end of the headgate, was completely washed away, while several rods of embankment were torn up haphazardly. The damage being severe enough to necessitate a great amount of repairs. The dam was harmed but little.

MAYOR FATHERS ILL; IS IMPROVED TODAY

City Executive Unable To Be At His Office Yesterday and Today—No Council Meeting.

Mayor James A. Fathers was unable to be at his office in the city hall yesterday and today being confined to his home by a severe attack of asthma which was greatly aggravated by the disagreeable weather. His condition was much improved this afternoon, however, and he expects to resume his duties at the city hall tomorrow. Owing to the Mayor's illness and the absence from the city of Clerk J. P. Hammarlund the council meeting scheduled for this afternoon was postponed.

RAINY MONDAY HALTED HIGH SCHOOL CANDIDATES FROM REGULAR PRACTICE

No attempt to get into their uniforms was made by the high school 1914 football aspirants yesterday afternoon at the close of school. The men are doubly anxious to handle the pickin' and fix themselves for a battle on the eleven and the bad weather of yesterday was a disappointment to them. Coach Curtis does not hope for many more rainy days to prevent regular drills, for he believes the men need a great amount of preliminary work, before any attempt to round out a first eleven should be attempted. Practice was scheduled for this afternoon when tackling the dummy will be the principal form of procedure.

DITHMAR MAJORITY IS NINE HUNDRED

Baraboo Man Leads Cousins on Republican Ticket for Lieutenant Governor.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 15.—Official returns from all counties, three of which reported by telephone from the county clerk's office, give Edward F. Dithmar of Baraboo about 900 majority over Marshall Cousins of Eau Claire for the republican nomination for lieutenant governor. From the same sources the majority of John S. Donald for the secretary of state nomination is 226.

Joseph Fisher, mayor of Marinette, who won the democratic nomination for state treasurer on the Karel ticket, reported personal campaign expenses of $629 and $532 spent by his campaign committee. Charles A. Kading of Watertown, successful candidate for the democratic nomination for attorney general, reported the same amount spent as did Fred B. Ray.

Howard Teasdale of Sparta, who was defeated for renomination, spent $394.

The correct return of W. H. Hatton's campaign expense is $4,770.

As filed yesterday, Mr. Hatton's account totalled $6,276.10, the candidate having erroneously added to the statement the sum of $1,500 given to his campaign committee which was previously reported.

Complete Official Count.
Madison, Sept. 15.—The complete official count of the primary election returns this morning shows the nomination of Edward F. Dithmar of Baraboo for the office of lieutenant governor, 1,014 over Marshall Cousins of Eau Claire.

On the democratic side doubtful contests are settled by complete figures showing the nomination of John S. Donald of Milwaukee for lieutenant governor over Willis Ludlow of Monroe, by 1,641.

Joseph Fisher of Marinette, Charles A. Kading of Watertown, and Harry C. Truesdell of Beloit, are the nominees for state treasurer, attorney general and secretary of state respectively.

The republican vote for governor and lieutenant governor follows: Total for governor, 12,461; Dithmar, 10,144; Kading, 2,317; Hult, 10,841; Phillips, 45,907; Roethel, 12,438; Utman, 6,736; Dahl gained about 5,308; second choice votes and Phillips 2,501.

For lieutenant governor: Dithmar, 33,732; Cousins, 32,718.

Complete Democratic Vote.

Donald Wins by 421.
Donald, 53,393; Holman, 52,972; Dithmar, 53,393; Johnson, 67,793; Shargt, 40,042; Johnson's majority 27,751; Bentley, 43,098; Owen, 60,828; Owen's majority, 17,730.

T. C. Richmond who has been checking the Philip ticket vote conceived the idea of checking up the board and there will be no contest on the part of Nels Holman.

Wouldn't Do in America.
A woman from Germany was visiting little Herman's mother one day. Herman was trying to make a kite. He asked the guest if she knew how to make a tail for his kite. She told him she did not know how the little American boys made tails for their kites, but she knew how the little German boys made them. She knotted up some strips of paper, and when he saw it he said: "Oh, my, that will never fly in America."

A FOUNTAIN OF SUGAR
Dispenses With the Common Use of Spoon, Which is Undesirable.

For boarding-houses, restaurants and similar establishments where there is likely to be some shocking exhibitions of carelessness or ill-breeding in the promiscuous use of eating implements, there has been designed and patented a self-acting sugar bowl which keeps the contents free from any contamination of this or any other kind. The device can hardly be classed as a decorative piece of table equipment, but then it is made for utility, and in this respect it is eminently successful.

Anyone who is familiar with the operation of the principle of the device will understand that of the new sugar-bowl. The receptacle has a downwardly inclined spout, with valves at either end, which are operated jointly by a tube stem, ending at a point convenient to the hand. When one of these valves is opened the other is closed, so that with one operation of the valves a predetermined quantity of sugar is discharged. For the sake of convenience the spout is made to hold about a teaspoonful of sugar, and in this manner every manipulation of the handle causes a teaspoonful of sugar to be projected into the cup over which it is held.

COMM'R F. C. HOWE SEES NO MENACE IN IMMIGRATION

Frederick C. Howe.

"Remembering that our ancestors and the ancestors of every American of today probably didn't look much more prepossessing than these, I am not alarmed over the immigration of southern Europe," says Frederick C. Howe, new commissioner of immigration at the port of New York. "People who are honest and hard working aren't going to do us any harm, no matter where they come from, and besides I believe the South Europeans bring us valuable traits in their joyousness and their warm-hearted dispositions to add to the makeup of the composite American of the future."

THREE JANESVILLE GIRLS IN AUTO SMASHUP NEAR BELOIT SATURDAY NIGHT

Three Janesville girls, Misses Elsie Schumaker, Mae and Elizabeth Dorn, were half a party of six whose automobile tumbled near Beloit Saturday evening. The machine, belonging to Richard Kemp of Beloit, went over a culvert, throwing the young people to the ground. Only Elsie Schumaker was sustained by a fall, but Miss Schumaker, who had to be taken to a Beloit doctor before she was able to make her trip home. The accident happened at 9:30 o'clock, two miles east of Beloit, on the Attn road. The party were on their way to this city. When the girls recovered from the shocks received they boarded the 11 o'clock interurban for some.

Why We Do Not Burn Witches.
When the old Puritan got so excited over witches that he couldn't sleep and was willing to burn the old women to get rid of them, he showed that he did not have the steady nerve of the modern man, who sees things ten times more mysterious happening all the time and never gets at all excited. The reason why they did not have so many in the asylums at that time was because there were no asylums to which they could be sent.—Omaha World Herald.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been going with a man over six months. He loves me dearly and he wants to marry me in two months. But I cannot come to a decision. What is the trouble?

(2) I am divorced and, at twenty-one, I am thirty-five. Is he too old?

(3) I met a man twenty-five years old and I love him dearly. How can I make him love me? He took me out auto riding for a time. All at once he stayed away for a week and then he came again to see me where I am working. Now he comes every noon, and when he sees my friend he always talks good about me. Do you think he cares for me? How can I win his heart?

(4) Can I re-marry before one year after being divorced in Wisconsin?

(1) I think you do not love him. (2) That may be the reason that you are not more interested in him. There is a great difference in your ages, but I have known of similar cases, where the people were very happy.

(3) He seems interested, but whether he loves you or not is another matter, which I could not say for you. Better let him try to win you. If you pursue him, you will doubtless find him becoming less interested. Men do not want to be sought after.

(4) I am not posted on the Wisconsin law. Consult a lawyer.

Every Day Talks To Every Day People

(BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.)

When it comes to raising our boys and girls, we are all of us, living in the humble sphere of domesticity, just as good a chance when it comes to raising his family, as the best man who directs his business from the inside office. He does not have to limit to a child's possibilities in this country. A strong, healthy mind, in a strong, healthy body, is a heart training in keeping and a strong determination to succeed. Mix that dose and administer through the years of adolescence and you have the greatest work of the Divine Master—a man.

There is a tendency to leave too much of the raising and training of our children to chance. We spend too much of our time in doing household tasks that might be eliminated from our scheme of living without wrecking the place. We are so anxious to keep house well, that we fail in the raising of our children. The order of events are always going to have a house to keep. With the children it is different, for ere you realize it, your babies are men and women grown. Men and women, whether they be prepared or not, must step in line and enter the game of life where often the competition is terribly keen.

The dainty clothes they wore in childhood will not aid them then! They've outgrown them! Well, for your child if you have given him a character that he cannot outgrow, that will be a shield and an anchor on life's battlefield. You cannot stand back of them then. Keep that in mind now, and train them to be self-reliant.

One does not need the "golden touch" to raise a family that will be a credit to their Creator, their country, home and parents. If your income is small—take heart! A person's chances are bounded, not by their income, but by their will.

When it comes to raising our boys and girls, we are all of us, living in the humble sphere of domesticity, just as good a chance when it comes to raising his family, as the best man who directs his business from the inside office. There is a tendency to leave too much of the raising and training of our children to chance. We spend too much of our time in doing household tasks that might be eliminated from our scheme of living without wrecking the place. We are so anxious to keep house well, that we fail in the raising of our children. The order of events are always going to have a house to keep. With the children it is different, for ere you realize it, your babies are men and women grown. Men and women, whether they be prepared or not, must step in line and enter the game of life where often the competition is terribly keen.

The dainty clothes they wore in childhood will not aid them then! They've outgrown them! Well, for your child if you have given him a character that he cannot outgrow, that will be a shield and an anchor on life's battlefield. You cannot stand back of them then. Keep that in mind now, and train them to be self-reliant.

One does not need the "golden touch" to raise a family that will be a credit to their Creator, their country, home and parents. If your income is small—take heart! A person's chances are bounded, not by their income, but by their will.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

In starching clothes use cornstarch instead of common starch; doesn't stick, is cheaper, will give far as three packages of other starch.

To make gas burn brightly, a little salt should be sprinkled over the top of the mantle. This should be done when the gas is burning.

Try using a small paint brush for greasing cake, bread or gem pans. It is a great help and can be easily cleaned in warm soap suds.

Before washing lace, organza or muslin collars and cuffs fasten them on to a piece of heavier muslin. This will prevent their tearing or stretching.

ing in the process of laundering.

Grape Butter—For grape butter wash, stew and stew seven pounds of grapes and press them through a sieve. Add three and a half pounds—seven cupsful—of granulated sugar. Mix one and a half tablespoonsful of small bits of stick cinnamon, the same amount of whole allspice and a tablespoonful of cloves. Tie the spice in two small cheesecloth bags. Add to the sugar and grapes and stew over a quick fire for twenty-five minutes after it begins to boil.

Grape Juice—Grape juice, which retains so much of the favor of the grape, and can be made into so many delicious beverages and desserts for winter, is well made by the following recipe: Heat very ripe grapes in a crock in the oven or in a double boiler or fireless cooker. When the skins are tender drain in a jelly bag. Heat the resulting juice, add sugar, bring to the boiling point, and pour into sterilized jars or bottles. If you use bottles, sterilize the corks and after they are in the bottles cover with sealing wax. Heat either half as much or quarter as much sugar as grape juice. The amount added must depend on your taste, but remember that it is an easy matter to add more sugar to the grape juice but it is impossible to take any from it later on. If you desire a clear grape juice, let the bag drip without squeezing. A more economical method is to squeeze the bag. The resulting grape juice will be a little cloudy, but its flavor will be quite as good.

Grape Conserve—Cook five pounds of grapes until tender and press them through a sieve, removing the skins and seeds. Heat the grapes before cooking them and cook in a double boiler. Boil the outer yellow skin of three oranges in water, drain and chop fine. Add to the grape pulp and add five pounds of granulated sugar, a pound each of shelled walnuts and raisins and the juice of the three oranges, strained. Boil until thick and pack into glasses.

Notre Lemon Butter for Cake

Filling—Take one pound of sugar (white), six eggs, the juice and grated rind of three lemons, one-quarter of a pound of butter. Put these ingredients into a double boiler and let simmer until about the consistency of honey. Tie down in jars. This can be kept for many months.

CARAMEL AS FLAVORING.

There is no flavor which is so cheap and so easy to prepare and withal so well liked as caramel flavor. The caramel custard is popular among all people where it is once tried, but many do not know of this wholesome and good flavor.

To make the caramel put granulated sugar in a clean, smooth saucepan and stir constantly while it is melting, do not let it overbrown, add a few drops of water or more if it is to be bottled and kept for flavoring and coloring sauces, and then it is ready to use. If making a custard turn into the milk as soon as it becomes a golden color.

Sweet potatoes cooked in this caramel sirup in the oven are most delicious. Apples quartered and baked with the caramel added to them and baked over them while cooking is a most delicious way of serving apples. Then the fruit may be served with cream and sugar.

Caramel ice cream is a most delicious frozen dessert.

Caramel flavor in boiled frosting for filling in cake is a most delicious one. The sugar may be browned and water added to it, then add the flavoring to boiled sugar sirup, and pour over the whipped egg as in making any boiled frosting.

Caramel Cream—Caramelize one-third of a pound of white sugar, add a few drops of water, stirring occasionally to keep the sugar from sticking, when it becomes a golden color turn it quickly into a quart of boiling hot milk. Beat the yolks of six or eight eggs, and pour over them the hot milk slowly. When the eggs are cooked set away to become cold before serving. This is a nice custard to serve with sponge cake.

When baked custards are liked pour into each cup before adding the custard enough of the caramel to coat the inside of the cup, then add the custard and cook. When they are turned out, the outside will be covered with the caramel. Serve with whipped cream.

The Awakening of Peggy

LXXXII.

Patty Smith, It Appears, Has Designs on the New Young Man.

Patty Smith had dropped in to pay a few minutes' call, and she was chatting away about Fanny Con-drey, the new young man who was interesting the girls of their set.

"Oh, I'm sure I'm going to like him immensely," bubbled Patty, who was given to overference. "He and Bob Day were passing the house last night, and I waved to them. Maybe they thought I was beckoning to them. Anyway, they came up to the porch. Amy Jones was with me. Somebody said something about it being so warm, and the boys just naturally invited us to go down to the corner to a soda fountain."

"Peggy wondered how much of this had been engineered by the two girls. Being a girl herself, she understood that young men are very often led into doing things which they fondly imagine they play themselves."

"After we had something cool to drink," Patty rattled on, "I said, 'Wouldn't it be nice to go for just a little walk in the park, and so off we went. I was so good a manager to walk with me, but I made things come out so that I could walk with Mr. Con-drey."

"Did Mr. Con-drey want to walk with you?" quizzed Peggy, maliciously.

"Oh, I don't know," laughed Patty. "I didn't ask him, and seeing he didn't seem to have any choice, I thought I'd settle the matter for him. I told you, Peggy, we girls have to look out for ourselves if we're going to have what we want. And I guess it's all right to manage a little if the men don't catch on to what we're doing. What do you think?"

"That's too hard for me to answer," laughed Peggy. "I guess what we do is pretty often decided by what we want. When we want anything, we generally find excuses for the course we take. And if we can't think of a good excuse at first, we keep on thinking until we find one."

"Well, we had a perfectly grand time," continued Patty. "Mr. Con-drey was so interesting! At first he didn't want to talk about himself. But I seemed so interested and sympathetic, and he just couldn't help telling me everything. You know what I mean, Peggy. You know girls go at making men talk about themselves. That makes them think you admire them, and then they like you for being so intelligent as to see their good points."

"You did Mr. Con-drey admire you?" asked Peggy, who was setting Patty down as a sly minx. Patty didn't look the part. Hers was a big-eyed innocence, which made her wiles the more effective.

"Why, Peggy, what a question! How could I tell? He was nice to me, just as nice as he could be. But, of course, nothing came up to show how he felt. I'm too good a manager to try to draw out a man the first time we are out together. That would be too thin!"

Peggy meditated quite a while after Patty had gone trippingly on her way. It was quite clear that Patty meant to make it a case of "I saw him first and he's mine," but Peggy couldn't quite reconcile herself to this.

Intimate Views of Life in Germany

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

TOURISTS who follow the beaten paths of travel, stay at American hotels, and hunt up places features in Baedeker, know very little of the home life of the Germans.

During a stay of several months in Danzig we made some very pleasant acquaintances with people of all classes and learned much of the intimate side of German life.

We succeeded in finding a place to live where we gave as much pleasure as we received. Danzig is so far to the east that few tourists visit it. My landlady had never seen an American, and my American was afforded her considerable amusement.

All the houses are built of brick or concrete, with red tiled roofs and with rows of chimneys on top. They are set close to the sidewalk along the narrow streets, paved with cobblestones, and frequently without sidewalks. Often the distance from housefront to housefront is not over twenty-five feet. If there is any yard at all in the rear or at the side there is sure to be a small summer house in which to drink coffee on summer afternoons.

We rented rooms for light house-keeping. I did not see a broom during my stay, though I am informed that they have them. The housewife crept around on her hands and knees with a duster and handbrush to clean the carpet. Housekeeping conveniences and labor saving devices are seldom seen except in the largest cities.

The German nation eats baker's bread, and all the baking of the poorer people is sent out of the house after the dough is prepared. It is cheaper to pay two and a half cents to the baker than to make a special fire under the oven at home to bake a cake. The fire that heats the kitchen does not heat the oven.

The white porcelain stoves for heating and cooking are imposing as monuments, are full of air compartments. A very small fire will heat this air, then the doors are screwed up tight and it remains warm all day. A bushel of coal will heat a room for a week in all but the coldest weather, when two fires a day must be made.

Every evening we hung our little cotton bags on the doorknob outside and the baker's boy placed in them the required number of small rolls for breakfast. Our milk was delivered at the door from a wooden barrel drawn on a wagon.

There are five meals a day in German households. Breakfast, consisting of coffee and semel, is followed by ten o'clock coffee, which is a reprieve of the first meal. The mid-day meal, which in most families is the chief meal of the day, is served at twelve o'clock. Four o'clock coffee is served with coffee cake or doughnuts. Supper is another warm meal. The fashionable have dinner in the evening at seven.

Working men have a hot dinner carried to them at noon. It is a common sight to see the wife visiting with her husband while he eats. The dinner pail generally contains the only meat that is eaten in families of feathers, during the night, one's feet become exposed to the breeze.

We were expected to use the bed linen three or four weeks. The frau explained that it wore out too quickly it was washed every week, not to mention the expense of laundering. Once a month the washtray came and worked nine or ten hours for fifty cents and three of the five German meals.

Every parlor from that of the washtray to the Geheimat has the same arrangement. Under a mantel shelf, which is crowded with small porcelain ornaments and other bric-a-brac, stands a couch flanked on either side by a stuffed chair. In front of the couch is a table. The seat on the couch behind the table is the place of honor and to it every honored guest is led.

The Last Shot

By FREDERICK PALMER

(Copyright, 1914, by Charles Scribner's Sons)

"Yes, exactly! Yes, you have it!" he said. His shoulders stiffened as he thrilled at seeing a picture of himself, as he wanted to see himself, done in bold strokes. It assured him that not only had his own mind grown beyond what were to him the narrow associations of his old La Tir days, but that hers had grown, too. "And you—what have you been doing all these years?" he asked.

"Living the life of a woman on a country estate," she replied. "Since you made a rule that no Gray officers should cross the frontier we have been a little lonelier, having only the Brown officers to tea. Did you really find it so bad for discipline in your own case?" she concluded with playful solemnity.

"One cannot consider individual cases in a general order," he explained. "And, remember, the Browns made the ruling first. You see, every year means a tightening—yes, a tightening, as arms and armies grow more complicated and the maintaining of staff secrets more important. And you have been all the time at La Tir, truly?" he asked, changing the subject. He was convinced that she had acquired something that could not be gained on the outskirts of a provincial town.

"No, I have traveled. I have been quite around the world."

"You have!" This explained much. "How I envy you! That is a privilege I shall not know until I am supernumerated." While he should remain chief of staff he must be literally a prisoner in his own country.

"Yes, I should say it was splendid! Splendid—yes, indeed!" Snappy little nods of the head being unequal to expressing the joy of the memories that her exclamation evoked, she clasped her hands over her knees and swung back and forth in the ecstasy of seventeen. "Splendid! I should say so!" She nestled the curling tip of her tongue against her teeth, as if the recollection must also be tasted. "Splendid, enchanting, enlightening, stupendous and wickedly expensive! Another girl and I did it all on our own."

"O-oh!" he exclaimed.

"Oh, oh, oh!" she repeated after him. "Oh, what, please?"

"Oh, nothing," he said. It was quite comprehensible to him how well equipped she was to take care of herself on such an adventure.

"Precisely, when you come to think it over!" she concluded.

"What interested you most? What was the big lesson of all your journeying?" he asked, ready to play the listener.

"Being born and bred on a frontier, of an ancestry that was born and bred on a frontier, why, frontiers interested me most," she said. "I collected impressions of frontiers as some people collect pictures. I found them all alike—stupid, just stupid! Oh, so stupid! Her frown grew with the repetition of the word; her fingers closed in on her palm in vexation. He recollected that he had seen her like this two or three times at La Tir, when he had found her outbursts most entertaining. He imagined that the small fist pressed against the table edge could deliver a stinging blow. "As stupid as it is for neighbors to quarrel! It put me at war with all frontiers."

"Apparently," he said.

She withdrew her fist from the table, dropped the opened hand over the other on her knee, her body relaxing, her wrath passing into a kind of somnolence and then into a soft, prolonged laugh.

"I laugh at myself at my own inconsistency," she said. "I was warlike against war. At all events, if there is anything to make a teacher of peace lose her temper it is the folly of frontiers."

"Yes," he exclaimed. "Yes! Go on!" And he thought: "I'm really having a very good time."

"You see, I came home from my tour with an idea—an idea for a life on a frontier just as engaging as yours."

she went on, "and opposed to yours. I saw there was no use of working with the grown-up folks. They must be left to The Hague conferences and the peace societies. But children are quite all the world over. You can plant thoughts in the young that will take root and grow as they grow."

"Patriotism, for instance," he observed narrowly.

"No, the follies of martial patriotism! The wickedness of war, which is the product of martial patriotism! The follies of patriotism! This was the red flag of anarchy to him. He started to speak, flushing angrily, but he held his tongue and only emitted a "whew!" in good-humored wonder.

"I see you are not very frightened by my opposition," she rejoined in a flash of amusement not wholly untempered by exasperation.

"We got the appropriation for an additional army corps this year," he explained contentedly, his repose completely regained.

"Thus increasing the odds against us. But perhaps not; for we are dealing with the children not with recruits, as I said. We call ourselves the teachers of peace. I organized the first class in La Tir. I have the children of La Tir."

"What new resources of confusion had ten years and a tour around the world developed in her? Was it possible that the whole idea of the teachers of peace was an invention to make conversation at his expense? If so, she carried it off with a sincerity that suggested other depths yet unsounded.

"Very easily," she answered. "You can tell the premier that you cannot win. Tell him that you will break your army to pieces against the Browns' fortifications!"

He gasped. Then an inner voice prompted him that the cue was comedy.

"Excellent fooling—excellent!" he said with a laugh. "Tell the premier that I should lose when I have five million men to fight three million! What a harlequin chief of staff I should be! Excellent fooling! You almost had me!"

Again he laughed, though in the fashion of one who had hardly unbent his spine, while he was wishing for the old days when he might take tea with her one or two afternoons a week. It would be a fine tonic after his isolation at the apex of the pyramid surveying the deference of the lower levels. Then he saw that her eyes, shimmering with wonder, grew dull and her lips parted in a rigid, pale line as if she were hurt.

"You think I am joking?" she asked. "Why, yes?"

"But I am not! No, no, not about such a ghastly subject as a war to-day!" She was leaning toward him, hands on knee and eyes burning like coals without a spark. "I—she paused as she had before she broke out with the first prophecy—"I will quote part of our children's oath: 'I will not be a coward. It is a coward who strikes first. A brave man even after he receives a blow tries to reason with his assailant, and does not strike back until he receives a second blow. I shall not let a burglar drive me from my house. If an enemy tries to take my land I shall appeal to his sense of justice and reason with him, but if he then persists I shall fight for my home. If I am victorious I shall not try to take his land but to make the most of my own. I shall never cross a frontier to kill my fellowmen.'"

Very impressive she made the oath. Her deliberate recital of it had the quality which justifies every word with an urgent faith.

"You see, with that teaching there can be no war," she proceeded, "and those who strike will be weak; those who defend will be strong."

THE WORLD SET FREE

Europe's Armageddon and the Last War

By H. G. WELLS

Copyright, 1914, by H. G. WELLS

Leblanc was one of those ingenious men whose lot would have been insignificant in any period of security, but who have been caught up to an immortal role in history by the sudden simplification of human affairs through some tragical crisis to the measure of their simplicity. Such a man was Abraham Lincoln, and such was Garibaldi. And Leblanc, with his transparent childish innocence, his entire self forgetfulness, came into this confusion of distrust and intricate disaster with an invincible appeal for the manifest simplicity of the situation. His voice when he spoke was "full of remembrance." He was a little, bald, spectacled man, inspired by that intellectual idealism which had been one of the peculiar gifts of France to humanity. He was possessed of one clear persuasion, that war must end and that the only way to end war was to have but one government for mankind. He brushed aside all other considerations. At the very outbreak of the war, so soon as the two capitals of the belligerents had been wrecked, he went to the president in the White House with this proposal. He made it as if it was a matter of course. He was fortunate to be in Washington and in touch with that gigantic childishness which was the characteristic of the American imagination, for the Americans also were among the simple peoples by whom the world was saved. He won over the American president and the American government to his general ideas. At any rate, they supported him sufficiently to give him a sounding with the more skeptical European governments, and with this backing he set to work—it seemed the most fantastic of enterprises—to bring together all the rulers of the world and unify them. He wrote innumerable letters, he sent messages, he went desperate journeys, he enlisted whatever support he could find. No one was too humble for an ally or too obstinate for his adversary. Through the terrible autumn of the last wars this persistent little visionary in spectacles must have seemed rather like a hopeful canary twittering during a thunderstorm. And no accumulation of disasters daunted his conviction that they could be ended.

For the whole world was flaring then into a monstrous phase of destruction. Power after power about the armed globe sought to anticipate attack by aggression. They went to war in a delirium of panic, in order to use their bombs first. China and Japan had assailed Russia and destroyed Moscow; the United States had attacked Japan; India was in anarchical revolt with Delhi, a pit of fire spouting death and flame; the redoubtable king of the Balkans was mobilizing. It must have seemed plain at last to every one in those days that the world was slipping headlong to anarchy. By the spring of 1914 from nearly 200 centers, and every week added to their number, roared the unquenchable crimson conflagrations of the atomic bombs, the filmy fabric of the world's credit had vanished, industry was completely disorganized, and every city, every thickly populated area was starving or trembling on the verge of starvation. Most of the capital cities of the world were burning; millions of people had already perished, and over great areas government was at an end. Humanity has been compared by one contemporary writer to a sleeper who handles matches in his sleep and wakes to find himself in flames.

For many months it was an open question whether there was to be found throughout all the race the will and intelligence to face these new conditions and make even an attempt to arrest the downfall of the social order. For a time the war spirit defeated every effort to rally the forces of preservation and construction. Leblanc seemed to be protesting against earthquakes and as likely to find a spirit of reason in the crater of Etna. Even though the shattered official governments now clamored for peace, bands of irreconcilables and invincible patriots, usurpers, adventurers and political desperadoes were everywhere in possession of the simple apparatus for the disengagement of atomic energy and the initiation of new centers of destruction. The stuff exercised an irresistible fascination upon a certain type of mind. Why should any one give in while he can still destroy his enemies? Surrender? While there is still a chance of blowing them to dust? The power of destruction which had once been the ultimate privilege of government was now the only power left in the world—and it was everywhere. There were few thoughtful men during that phase of blinding waste who did not pass through such moods of despair as Barnet describes and declare with him: "This is the end."

And all the while Leblanc was going to and fro with glittering glasses and an inexhaustible persuasiveness, urging the manifest reasonableness of his view upon ears that ceased presently to be inattentive. Never at any time did he betray a doubt that all this chaotic conflict would end. No nurse during a nursery uproar was ever so certain of the inevitable ultimate peace. From being treated as an amiable dreamer he came by insensible degrees to be regarded as an extravagant possibility. Then he began to seem even practicable. The people who listened to him in 1903 with a smiling impatience were eager before 1909 was four months old to know just exactly what he thought might be done. He answered with the patience of a philosopher and the lucidity of a Frenchman. He began to receive responses of a more and more hopeful type. He went across the Atlantic to Italy, and there he gathered in the promises for this congress. He chose those high meadows above Brissago for the reasons we have stated. "We must get away," he said, "from old associations." He set to work requisitioning material for his conference with an assurance that was justified by the replies. With a slight incredulity the conference which was to begin a new order in the world gathered itself together. Leblanc summoned it by virtue of an indefinite humility. Men appeared upon those upland slopes with the apparatus for wireless telegraphy; others followed with tents and provisions; a little cable was strung down to a convenient point upon the Locarno road below. Leblanc arrived, sedulously directing every detail that would affect the tone of the assembly. He might have been a courier in advance rather than the originator of the gathering. And then there arrived, some by cable car, most by aeroplane, a few in other fashions, the men who had been called together to confer upon the state of the world. It was to be a conference without a name. Nine monarchs, the presidents of four republics, a number of ministers and ambassadors, powerful journalists and such like prominent and influential men took part in it. There were even scientific men, and that world famous old man Holsten came with the others to contribute his amateur statercraft to the desperate problem of the age. Only Leblanc would have dared so to summon figureheads and powers and intelligences or have had the courage to hope for their agreement.

And one at least of those who were called to this conference of governments came to it on foot. This was King Egbert, young king of the most venerable kingdom in Europe. He was a rebel and had always been of deliberate choice—a rebel against the magnificence of his position. He affected long pedestrian tours and a disposition to sleep in the open air. He came now over the pass of St. Maria Maggiore and by boat up the lake to Brissago. Thence he walked up the mountain, a pleasant path set with oaks and sweet chestnut. For provision on the walk, for he did not want to hurry, he carried with him a pocketful of bread and cheese. A certain small retinue that was necessary for his comfort and dignity upon occasions of state, he sent on by the cable car, and with him walked his private secretary, Firmin, a man who had thrown up the professorship of world politics in the London School of Sociology, Economics and Political Science to take up these duties. Firmin was a man of strong rather than rapid thought. He had anticipated great influence in this new position, and after some years he was still only beginning to apprehend how largely his function was to listen. Originally he had been something of a thinker upon international politics, an authority upon tariffs and strategy and a valued contributor to various of the higher organs of public opinion, but the atomic bombs had taken him by surprise, and he had still to recover completely from his preatomic opinions and the silence ing effect of those "sustained explosions."

The king's freedom from the trammels of etiquette was very complete. In theory—and he abounded in theory—his manners were purely democratic. It was by sheer habit and inadvertency that he permitted Firmin, who had discovered a rucksack in a small shop in the town below, to carry both bottles of beer. The king had never, as a matter of fact, carried anything never noted that he did not do so. "We will have nobody with us," he said, "at all. We will be perfectly simple."

DANDRUFF ON CHILD'S HEAD

When Two Weeks Old. Broke Out in Rash. Got Worse and Worse. Did Not Sleep Day or Night. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Head Well Entirely.

Batesville, Ohio.—"My child was about two weeks old when I first noticed a sort of dandruff coming on his head. I tried to comb it off and in so doing I irritated it and caused his head to get in a sore. My child's head broke out in a sort of rash or yellow looking pimples. It just got worse and worse. He was very cross and he did not sleep. I tried to wash his head with soap and water and it did not do a bit of good so one day my father-in-law asked me if I had tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I told him, 'No.' So he went to the drug store, got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I washed his head good with Cuticura Soap and warm water and then put the Cuticura Ointment on with a little flannel cloth. It seemed like it stopped that burning and itching for he soon got so he could sleep. In about a week I saw it was getting better so I kept on. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment three months and then his head was well entirely, not leaving a scar." (Signed) Mrs. Clinton Bollinger, Mar. 21, 1914.

"Good day for the race," said Abel. "What race?" inquired Cain. "Human race," said Abel.

"We all like you better than the last one, sir." "Thank you," said the new official pleasantly. "And may I ask why?" "Well, sir," replied the lunatic, "you see, you are more like one of us!"

"Hanged if I haven't bitten on that old chestnut again," said Cain, and he immediately used his club to prove that Abel wasn't exactly telling the truth.

"Yes, sir, old Skinfint, across the street there, has done more to boom this here town than any other man in it."

"He has? Why he acts like a surly, quarrelsome fellow who wants to get the best of everybody."

"I know it, but the man has been the making of eleven of our lawyers."

AS AN OLD TIMER, HOW DOES IT GO?

I GET MORE SATISFACTION AND ONE SMALL CHEW TAKES THE PLACE OF TWO CHEWS OF THE OLD KIND—SEE.

THE OLD CHEWER KNOWS THE WORTH OF THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW

WHAT'S the good of a tobacco that makes you take a big wad and grind and grind on it?

"Right-Cut" is the Real Tobacco Chew that gives you real tobacco satisfaction from a small chew.

That's why men are glad to get "Right-Cut," and to pass the glad word along to every man who chews.

It's pure, rich tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and how little tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

"Joffre, The Silent," Has Career Which Rivals Life of Napoleon

Paris, Sept. 15.—Joffre, the Silent, this is a three word sketch of the commander-in-chief of the French army. A man of studious disposition, deep thought and love of action more than a man of words. Yet, when he speaks "he says something" and his appeal to the people of France, France's "lost province," reveals an eloquence worthy of the best of the French academy can produce.

General Joffre—if he was a first name no one ever heard of it—was born in southern France, near Perpignan. As a boy he had little to say to anyone. He was a student. At 15 he graduated from the college at Perpignan with a degree of Bachelor of Letters, and before he had completed his seventeenth year—his case is unique in France—he was admitted to the Polytechnique, fourteen in a list of hundreds, France having two West Fronts, the Polytechnique for the engineers and St. Cyr for the other branches of the land forces.

After one year at the military academy he became an officer in the army during the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. After that war he was put in charge of the new defenses of Paris and it was upon the fortifications designed by himself at Enghien that Marshal McMahon promoted him from lieutenant to colonel. He was sent to West Front, the Polytechnique for the engineers and St. Cyr for the other branches of the land forces.

Joffre wanted to see some real fighting. He began to be afraid that his life was going to be spent in building forts. He yearned to throw down the towel and pick up his sword. General Count gave him his chance. Under the enemy's fire, he organized the defense of the island. He did the same thing for Madagascar. Then he was sent to Dahomey with Colonel Bonnier, who was killed in battle. Joffre, commanding the rear guard, rallied the retreating French and led a new attack, completely routing the enemy. Without a word,

"What of it?" "I really think he is becoming interesting in our oldest daughter."

"There you go again with your pipe dreams! Last week it was a duke."

The superintendent of a lunatic asylum was strolling round the grounds a few weeks after his appointment, when one of the inmates came up to him and, touching his hat, exclaimed:

"Oh, no, John, it must be something real good and out of the ordinary. I tell you what. Let us kill the first pig and give a banquet."

after completing his victory, he entered Timbuctoo, the first to do so. That was the last colonial work he performed. Returning to France he became a professor at the war college, the director of the engineers, general of brigade, general of division, corps commander, and lastly, commander-in-chief of the French army, to which post he was appointed some two years ago.

Joffre never asked for a promotion. He has never played politics. With-out a word he has accepted what has been given to him and made the best of it. Those who have followed the courses in college of General Joffre declare him to be a disciple of Napoleon I. so far as his methods are concerned.

Joffre is not a dress parade man. He is practical. Here is an illustration. At the annual maneuvers of the French army in the past everything was according to program. Friday the Blue Army would do this and the Red Army do that and that Saturday Blues and Reds would continue in this or that manner and so until the last day when the president of the republic, with his entourage, could occupy tents at a prearranged location and follow the final charges.

Joffre, upon assuming command, found all this too tame. It was not near enough actual warfare to suit him and he completely changed things. At the last maneuvers he put the two armies in the field and gave them the briefest instructions. The Blues were to defend their position; the Reds were to take it. There were no other instructions. Officers were to fight their commands precisely as though in real battle.

So completely successful were Joffre's new plans that the officers were put on the retired list—they had failed to measure up to war conditions. They were retired upon Joffre's recommendations after he had witnessed their performances on the "battlefield."

Joffre in two years time has made a name for himself throughout Europe. The world probably will know him shortly.

Whitewater News OLD LANDMARK AT WHITEWATER BURNS

"Hillock Mansion" on Highland Street is a Heap of Ruins As Result of Storm.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Whitewater, Sept. 15.—One of Whitewater's landmarks is a heap of ruins this morning. Beautiful "Hillock Home," which was built in 1872 by the late C. M. Blackman, was struck by lightning about midnight, and burned to the ground. A terrific thunder storm was raging and there was one crash which must have been the fatal blow. The house has not been occupied for some time, for it was almost too large for one family to care for, and it has been in several real estate deals in recent years. Mr. Blackman took much pride in keeping up the large lawn, with the winding walks bordered by hedges, and it was one of the places pointed out to strangers when they came to visit here. The house was built of brick and the front wall and the central chimney are still standing. When first discovered by neighbors, the whole house seemed to be in flames, showing that the bolt of lightning must have set fire to the interior. It is not probable that it could have caught fire from the roof, for the heaviest rainfall for some time occurred yesterday. The down-pour began in the afternoon and one storm followed another until about 2 o'clock. The lurid glare in the storm-swept sky was enough to brighten the landscape for at least half a mile. The shrill scream of the fire whistle brought the department to the scene, but they were powerless to do anything as there are no hydrants west of Prince street, leaving a considerable portion of West Main street without fire protection. As people watched the sky, speculating just where the fire might be, some feared it was the barn on the Ralph Trust farm, only a short distance from "Hillock Home," where his fine herd of Guernsey cattle is stabled and the house's harvest had been stored. If something had to go, we are glad the empty dwelling was struck rather than one of the homes near by.

The Blackman home, built on a knoll in the eight acre lot, stood at the end of Highland street. In years gone by it has been the scene of much hospitality, and there are many memories this morning to those who have attended the weddings of the three Blackman daughters, or been one of those present when Mr. Blackman's Sabbath school class had one of their frequent social gatherings.

The report came Sunday night that Rev. C. F. Spray had been located at Racine in the M. E. church for the coming year. The Spray family have many warm friends here, both in their own parish and in sister churches, who are sorry to lose them from this city. Rev. C. J. Andrews, Park Place, Milwaukee, is designated by the conference to come to Whitewater. Mr. Spray is a member of the Monday club and was its president last year. He was an ardent worker in the "no license" campaign here last spring. His three children are musical and his son, Craston, has won honors in our high school declamatory contests, and been the school representative at the district league meetings. The daughters, Misses Chloe and Edith, are normal school graduates and are now students at Lawrence university, Appleton.

National Geographic Society War Primer,

Soissons.—A French city 65 miles northeast of Paris by rail, and 25 miles directly east of Compiègne on the left bank of the Aisne. It has iron and copper foundries, and factories for the production of boilers, agricultural implements and other iron goods, straw hats, glass and sugar. The town was sacked by Charles V in 1544 and by the Huguenots in 1565. In 1814 the town was captured and recaptured by the Allies and the French. In 1815, after Waterloo, it was the rallying point for the vanquished and it was not occupied by the allies till the 14th of August. In the Franco-Prussian war it surrendered to the Germans.

Senlis.—A town of northern France, on the Nonette, 34 miles northeast of Paris by rail and 26 miles by air line. Its population is about 7,500. Its Gallo-Roman walls, 23 feet high and 12 feet thick, are with those of St. Dizier and Bourges, the most perfect in France. At each of the 16 angles of the wall stands a tower. The city has five gates. The manufacture of brick and tiles, cardboard, measures and other wares are among the industries. The League's war headquarters in 1589 by Henry I and Francois de La Noue.

Abbeville.—A town of northern France, on the Somme river, 12 miles from its mouth in the English channel, and 28 miles northwest of Amiens by rail. It is built partly on an island and partly on both sides of the river. Its boundaries include the spinning, the manufacture of cloth, sugar-making, ship-building and lock-smithing. The French and English were its master by turn in the 14th and early 15th centuries. In 1477 it was annexed permanently by France. Its population is about 20,000.

Chalons-sur-Marne.—A town of northeastern France, 107 miles east of Paris, on the main line of the Eastern Railway to Nancy. The population is approximately 25,000. Huge military barracks lie to the north and east. The principal industry is brewing, and all varieties of immense length, by lines of railway, are used as storehouses for beer. The plains near Chalons were the scene of the defeat of Attila, the Hun, in the 5th century. The "Army of Chalons," formed by Marshal McMahon, in the camp at this place, after the first reverses of the French in 1870, surrendered at Sedan. The military camp is still used as a training center for troops.

Vitry-Le-François.—A town in northeastern France, on the Marne, 20 miles southwest of Chalons, and 100 miles by rail east of Paris. The present town was built in 1545 by Francis I. to replace the older town burned in the previous year by Charles V. It manufactures cement and decorated wares and has a population of about 9,000.

Vesoul.—A town of eastern France, situated between the Morte hill and the River Durgon, 35 miles from the Alsace border and 236 miles east of southwest of Paris by rail. Its medieval walls of the 13th and 15th centuries still exist on the northern side. Distilling and the manufacture of files and taploca are among the industries. The town suffered greatly during the wars of religion and the Thirty Years War.

GOVERNOR WELCOMES INSURANCE DELEGATES. Asheville, N. C., Sept. 15.—Governor Locke Craig, of North Carolina, today delivered the principal address of welcome at the opening of the national convention of insurance commissioners here. Mayor James E. Rankin and James H. Southgate, of Durham, also spoke briefly, welcoming the delegates to Asheville.

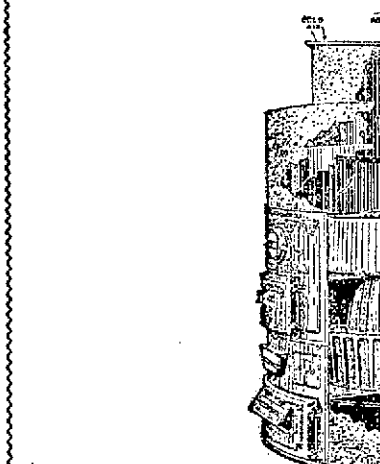

The principal feature of the day's session was the address of James R. Young, insurance commissioner of North Carolina and president of the association. He responded to the welcoming addresses. "Tonight the following papers will be read before the convention: "Compulsory Local Investments" by Commissioner F. H. McMaster, of South Carolina and Commissioner T. M. Henry, of Mississippi; "Should the States Encourage the Formation of New Companies," by Commissioner W. V. Collier, of Texas and Commissioner E. H. Deavitt, of Vermont.

FALSE NEWS CAUSES TROUBLE IN GERMANY

Claim German Officials Circulated Sensational Stories to Stir People to Action.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] The Hague, Sept. 15.—It is learned on good authority that the publication of sensational stories which appeared in German newspapers during the first days of the war, such as the report of a French physician trying to infect a well in Alsace with typhoid bacilli, were secured by the German army officials with a view of bestirring the people to watchfulness. Stories like that of the infected well were widely published. Lakes all over the country were being poisoned, Russian automobiles carrying a great quantity of gold were being tried to cross Germany from France. The whole country was swarming with spies.

The effect that these stories had, for they were generally believed, led to the shooting of many innocent persons, including one German army captain, and great interruptions to the progress of high army personages on important missions. The chief of police in Stuttgart issued the following official statement to his men, showing the effect of these sensational stories: "The populace is beginning to become crazy. The streets are full of old people of both sexes who conduct themselves in an unworthy manner. Everyone sees in his neighbor a French or Russian spy, and considers it his duty to beat him, together with the policeman who tries to protect him, or at least, to cause a tremendous crowd to collect and hand he supposed spy over to the police. Clouds are mistaken for aviators, stars for airplanes, bicycle pumps for bombs. Telephone and telegraph wires in the middle of the city are believed to have been cut, bridges blown up, spies shot and the water supply poisoned. It is impossible to predict what form these extravagances will assume when the situation becomes really more earnest. As a matter of fact, not a single suspicious thing has thus far occurred in Stuttgart."

They Need the Money. It is no disgrace to die poor—but it's a mean trick to play on your relatives. War Atlas—Cut the coupon from today's paper and bring it into the Gazette office with 17c, or by mail 15c.

ROEMER TO ATTEND A MEETING OF COMMITTEE AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Sept. 16.—Chairman John H. Roemer of the railroad commission will leave for Washington, D. C. the latter part of the week to attend a meeting of a committee of the National association of Railroad commissioners, which is to consider the question of railway capitalization. The committee is to make a report to the federal government embodying suggestions of legislation to control capitalization. Commissioner Roemer is chairman of the committee that has this matter under consideration.

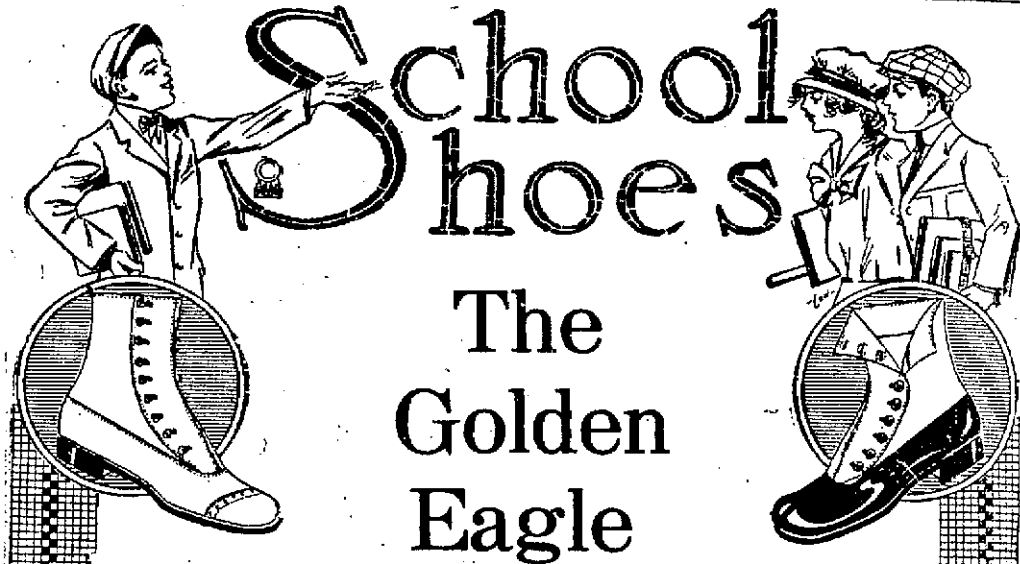

Trees Many Centuries Old. Probably the oldest trees in England are yews. There is, for instance, one in the churchyard at Burrington, Coombe, where the famous hymn, "Rock of Ages," is said to have been written, which is estimated to be at least sixteen hundred years old, and there is also a very ancient one in the churchyard at Stoke Poges, where Gray wrote his "Elegy."

MILWAUKEE STOMACH SUFFERER CONVINCED BY JUST ONE DOSE

Ben Behling Gave Up Hope Before He Found Remedy—is Happy Now.

Ben F. Behling of 959 Louis Avenue, Milwaukee, was a sufferer from malodorous of the stomach and digestive tract for a long time. He gave up hope. At last he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. He took a dose just to try it. The results were remarkable. He wrote: "I was in such a bad condition that I had given up hope of ever getting well again. I sent to you for one dose of your remedy and took it the same day you sent it. It has worked wonderfully. I took five more bottles, one each week. I am now a new man again. I thank you a thousand times for the good you did me." Just such stories are told by thousands who have taken Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. It is known everywhere. The first dose proves. This remedy cures the digestive trace of mucoid accretions and poisonous matter. It brings quick relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.
